Nora's Ark

Synopsis

The weatherman predicted rain. So Nora built an ark. Just like Noah. Well, not just like Noah. Noah welcomed a host of animals two-by-two. Nora's passenger list includes two backyard spiders, a pair of battery-operated monkeys, and a couple of unimpressed cats. Nora also employs her little brother, some dusty wooden boxes, and a sizeable dose of contagious imagination in her distinctive re-creation of the timeless story. Charming and inventive, Nora's big voyage, and its stirring conclusion, provide entertainment and inspiration for readers of all ages.

This is a beautiful story of people helping others through a flood disaster. It captures the deep care that evolves in a community as they help each other get through hard times. I particularly enjoyed that animals were put into the house with people to keep them safe during the flooding. DCB

This was purchased for a grandchild, but I'm still enjoying it myself. Great story for a little girl.

Perfect book to read to my granddaughter Nora. Describes our reality relative to cultural fables in a kind friendly and familiar environment. Makes sense to a child.

Loved the illustrations.

Such a cute story of little girl building her ark just like Noah. Bought it as a gift for my niece Nora...she loved it LOVED this book! My granddaughter has the same name, so that made it very special! It is adorable and such a neat parallel with Noah's Ark!

Nice

Nice analogy. Great for young minds. More books of faith are needed for our youth. Thank you Eileen Spinelli. Keep them coming.
